

Inside Your Congress

Tell The People!

—by—
SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Whatever faults our business system has, its worst fault is that it is not understood. Everything shows that the rank and file want to be fair to business.

For example, a recent poll shows that the Man on the Street believes the average profit of automobile manufacturing companies is 24%. That makes him sore. He thinks that is too much—that it is unfair. So, he strikes and the public generally supports the strikers.

Well, the fact is that automobile profits, when there are any, run from 4% to 8%, or from one-sixth to one-third what the Man on the Street believes them to be.

But here is the pay-off. The same Man on the Street, sore and resentful as he may have been, was asked a second question: What do you think a fair profit would be? The average answer was 12%.

In short, the Man on the Street considers fair a profit greater than the automobile companies actually make! But because he thinks they make an unfair profit, he has a grudge.

Whose fault is this? It is not the fault of the Man on the Street.

Here is more proof. The "Railway Age" took a similar poll, not of the Man on the Street, but of railway employees themselves. Fifty-three per cent (or more than a majority) of the railway men who had any opinion on the subject thought that the railroads made from 25% to 75% on their investment in the recent wartime year of 1941.

Again, the fact is, as shown by the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, the profits of all railroads combined that year were a tiny fraction over 4%.

And here is the pay-off a second time. Ninety per cent of railway workers having an opinion on the subject thought the railroads should be allowed a greater profit than they are actually making!

Whose fault is it that the railway workers—who want to be fair to the investors who have put their dough into the locomotives, tunnels, bridges and road beds they work on, are so wrong on the facts?

There are 1,400,000 good Americans running our railroads and doing the hang-up-ed job ever done in the world's history in moving things and citizens hither and yon over the best piece of real estate on this planet. Yet less than 6 out of 100 of them, who have any ideas on the subject, know the truth about railroad profits.

Seventy-three per cent of them thought that American railroads had made a profit these past fifteen years. Yet the fact is that on the average over these fifteen years, 55% of the railroads paid no dividends whatever to their investors. Even in the wartime peak year of 1944, 42% of them paid no return to their owners.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?"

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Sparks from a brush fire igniting a birds' nest are believed to have been responsible for a blaze which destroyed a combination garage and apartment on the property of Leon Scott, Bycott road, near Holicong, on Saturday.

A brush fire had been started in a field about 100 feet from the building, and the sparks were driven by the high wind toward the building, which was less than 25 feet from the large house. It is thought sparks from the brush fire ignited a birds' nest in the cornice of the combination garage and apartment, the latter not occupied.

The fire had made such progress before the arrival of the firemen from Lahaska, Doylestown and New Hope that nothing could be done toward saving the structure. The firemen directed their efforts toward saving the dwelling which was ignited several times. A corn crib between 20 and 40 feet from the garage was also set afire several times, but was saved.

Attempting to remove an electric motor from a blazing barn on his property, near Gardenville, Sunday, Hobart Myers, aged 41, was severely burned about the face and hands, and removed to Doylestown Emergency Hospital, where he is receiving treatment for second degree burns of the face.

Mr. Myers, the owner of two adjoining farms, was burning brush on the property occupied by Mrs. Wilmet Morris, when the high wind carried sparks to the section of the barn which is covered with wood shingles.

The flames spread rapidly over the roof and set fire to other sections.

CARDS TONIGHT

Catholic Daughters of America will conduct a card party this evening at eight o'clock in the K. of C. home. Prizes include: Rug, garbage can, set of mixing bowls, woman's handbag, table cover, jumper dress, glassware, lamp shade, etc. Mrs. William Morris is chairman.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Iranian question remains on the agenda of the United Nations Security Council, but the Russian delegation will not take part in any future talks on the subject. Soviet Delegate Gromyko announced his intention yesterday after only one M. Bonnet of France and Dr. Lange of Poland had voted to withdraw the matter. In his opening remarks Mr. Gromyko said that some members seemed to doubt Iranian and Russian assurances that there was no longer a dispute and forecast that further discussion might "have the most regrettable consequences."

Although Teheran reported that the Red Army was "rapidly" evacuating Azerbaijan as well as other parts of Iran, foreign observers had no evidence that the Russians were leaving Azerbaijan.

By the time the Council meets again at 3 p. m. tomorrow it is hoped that informal conferences will have resulted in an agreed resolution that would have unanimous support for action in regard to Franco Spain. What worries the delegates most is the danger of paralysis that might afflict the Council if the Soviet Union persists in absenting itself whenever the majority differs with its interpretation of the Charter.

SWISS ARE AWAITING BID TO JOIN THE UN

Mere Optimistic Than Ever About Their Future International Position

MAYUSELEAGUE BLDG.

BERN, Apr. 24—(INS)—Members of the Swiss Government are more optimistic than ever before about the future international position of their country since the recent exchange of notes with Russia, renewing diplomatic relations which had been broken off for many years.

Observers in the Federal Palace here foresee three very probable results from this diplomatic feat, which came as a great surprise to most of the Swiss population.

First and most important of these results is said to be Switzerland's immensely improved chances to be asked to become a member very soon of the United Nations organization.

Already some members of the government are disclosing probable dates, saying that Moscow would have no more reason to oppose the membership of Switzerland. Formerly, they say no nation dared to take up the cause of their country because of the risk of irking the Russians.

Another prospect which pleases Swiss officials is that the League of Nations building in Geneva may actually be used as a regional headquarters for the UN organization or to house some of its most important councils and committees.

Perhaps related to this last question is a message sent by Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the UN, to the Swiss foreign affairs department.

WEEK-END OF NEWS

Easter week-end saw a fascinating mixture of news bearing on the great sociological, economic and political problems of the period.

The noisiest news was that of Chester Bowles, Stabilization Administrator, who carried his fight against Congress "to the people" via radio, press and his high-pressure Washington lobby.

Competing though he was with the Easter bunny, new spring clothes and marvelous weather, Bowles persisted in his one-man crusade. He pictured himself as a little boy with his finger in the economic dyke; indeed, more than one cartoonist has so sketched him.

With the voice and bearing of a snake-oil medicine show proprietor, and a complacent disregard of Federal statutes prohibiting lobbying by Federal officials, Bowles protested loud and long the steps taken by Congress to clip his wings and those of his subordinates in the price-control field.

Bowles presented a doctrine which has been repudiated by the record and abandoned by most of his associates in the Democratic field. The White House itself walked out on the Bowles ideas some weeks ago when the new wage-price formula was substituted for the original hold-the-line program.

Philadelphia newspapers gave an equal prominence to the current meat shortage. Some 2000 meat shops, with no meat, plan to close several days a week.

There is grim justice in coupling the meat and Bowles stories. OPA produced the meat famine. The chain of events is as direct and logical as the fact that rain and sunshine make the little green grass grow in the meadows.

OPA has had more complete charge of meat than perhaps any other commodity imaginable. It has controlled every step, from the price per calf and per bushel of grain through each stage of processing right down to the butcher's counter. Its pet scheme of subsidies has had full sway, and many special authorities of other Federal agencies have been diverted to its use.

Yet there is a critical meat shortage—not merely world-wide, which might be understandable, but on our own home front at a time when we should be accumulating a surplus to help other starving millions.

With the same semi-hysterical fervor he displayed while most Americans were going to church or parading in new outfits, long ago Bowles insisted on having his own way in the management of meat production. The industry itself, the farmers, the butchers—all these told him again and again he would drive meat off the market. Such

BRISTOLIAN TO FLY TO ROME TO BE WED

Anthony Boccardo To Take With Him Complete Trouseau For Miss Emiliani

WILL LIVE IN BRISTOL

Anthony Boccardo, 221 Cleveland street, who served in the U. S. Army for 56 months, will fly to Rome, Italy, early in May to claim Miss Anna Marie Emiliani of that city as his bride. Mr. Boccardo, who became engaged to the young Italian woman during the time he was stationed with the U. S. Army in Italy, will take with him on the air journey a bridal gown and veil, and complete trousseau for Miss Emiliani. Then following a motor tour of Italy the couple will return to Bristol to make their home.

Mr. Boccardo, who was granted his discharge last October, had planned to wed during his stay in Rome, but his transfer to another part of Italy caused postponement of the wedding arrangements. Before he was able to return to Rome his unit was ordered home; and inasmuch as Miss Emiliani would not be permitted to enter the United States except as the wife of an American citizen, Boccardo decided to go to Italy for the wedding.

Clothing is rationed in that country, and in fact is almost impossible to obtain, claims the localite. His sister, being the same size as the bride-to-be, was assigned the task of purchasing the trousseau. It is now complete and ready for the groom-elect to take with him across the Atlantic. There is a gown of white satin and net, complete with train; a bridal veil, satin slippers; a two-piece suit, afternoon dresses, hats and slippers. The only thing that it will be necessary to order upon arrival in Italy will be the bridal bouquet.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Emiliani, of Rome. A graduate of the University of Rome where she specialized in journalism, Miss Emiliani is quite a linguist. She speaks Italian, French, German and Spanish, states her fiance, and she is now studying English and corresponds in that language with members of the Boccardo family.

Police upon arrival, finding that the woman had regained consciousness, were requested by Mrs. Frankenhield to arrest her husband, Ralph Frankenhield, ex-G. I., now employed in Bristol. Later Mrs. Frankenhield decided to drop the charges, and Frankenhield was released.

HOLDING THE LINE AT 112

If it is true that the first 100 years are the most difficult, it seems a man—or woman—cannot bank on more than twelve years of ease.

Dr. Maurice Ernest of London, who is seventy-two but is often taken for fifty, even by medical men, has announced that forty years of research have convinced him that no one has ever lived longer than 112 years. Of course, Dr. Ernest expects to live to be 100. So certain is he of it that he has founded the Centenarians' Club, which seeks to help people to live that long or longer.

Dr. Ernest disposed of all cases of persons reputed to have lived longer than 112 years, in his researches. Here are a few of them:

"Zaro Agha, who died in Turkey in 1934, was palmed off as 156 years old in 1930," the doctor said. "I hate to be a killjoy, but all evidence indicates he was between seventy and eighty, and probably closer to the former than the latter."

"Take the Bechuanaland savage case. Officials there wrote the Times here that he was guaranteed 140. I challenged them and instituted my own enquiries, which showed he was the village magician and that he thought up the age to confound credulous white administrators. He was fairly old, though—about ninety."

"Another bogus age claim was that of the celebrated 'Old Parr'—Thomas Parr, a Shropshire man who was popularly believed to have reached the age of 152. In that case it turned out that a local nobleman took Parr, who was close to 100, to London and faked the age merely to curry favor with the king (Charles II.)."

"That Suffolk grave stone which lists the dead occupant as 207 years old was actually the mistake of a semi-illiterate stone cutter who thought that was the proper way to write twenty-seven."

APPRECIATION OF ART

An ever-growing appreciation of art has brought an end to the era in which pictures on the walls of the average home were as likely as not to be calendar subjects. Today few homes do not have at least a good reproduction or two.

"American primitives," as paintings in which objects are delineated clearly are now described, have taken on new value, as anyone who has attempted to buy a few has discovered. These are on the Currier & Ives and Charles Russell order. Frederick Remington would probably be described as a near-primitive.

Some of the newer output, which is receiving wide acceptance, puzzles an older generation. For instance, Thomas Hart Benton recently exhibited a new conception of "Custer's Last Stand" at a Chicago exhibition. The characters, or what was left of them, seemed to be floating to heaven on clouds. It will be difficult, of course, to prove that this painting is not factual, as there were no earthly survivors of the fight.

WEEK-END OF NEWS

Administrative experts as the Secretary of Agriculture tried repeatedly to modify his regulations.

Bowles had his own way then; and a scarcity (planned or otherwise) resulted. Yet on such a record, which can be multiplied by virtually all the other commodities OPA has touched, Bowles demands a right which is neither logical nor Constitutional—a right to dictate to Congress how policy and law shall read.

The extent to which America has missed the boat in world politics, and by our own utterly needless shortages doomed large populations to sickness and starvation, was emphasized by the President's new orders for flour conservation, also issued over the week-end.

Had the Truman-Bowles leadership acted with promptness and vigor late last summer, as soon as Japan surrendered, the present emergency might have been largely averted. By intelligent action then, immense stores of food might now be coming to harvest in the Southern hemisphere, while Europe might itself have a crop on the way which would take up its food needs by late summer and fall.

But that vital period passed in mutual back-patting and back-stage squabbles over territorial grabs; and now, when it is too late to do more than slightly alleviate the crisis, the White House is producing confusion instead of food.

Bowles continues to sing two songs, both off key. He repeated the charge that all who oppose his plans are "out-and-out profiteers who are licking their chops in anticipation of an orgy of speculative gains," and he repeated the empty boast that he is the nation's sole hope against inflation.

Meanwhile, America was parading in the sunshine attired in the fruits of a record-breaking buying spree—largely clothing of less-than-desired quality at vastly-increased prices. The shortages, the lowered quality, and the higher prices all are the doing of Mr. Bowles and the OPA; for recent reports show that OPA has already granted some 12,000 specific price raises and promised thousands more.

And meanwhile, the roots of inflation were being struck a heavy blow with much less publicity than Mr. Bowles gained. Thirty Governors, most of them Republicans (including Gov. Martin), demanded that President Truman balance the Federal budget at some supportable level. This step would at once solve most economic questions; but it would wreck the political machine which the President and his Democratic National Chairman, Robert E. Hannegan, have built up.

And meanwhile also, the newspapers recorded the death of Lord Keynes, British inventor of "deficit-spending," the financial device used by the New Deal which has produced the current economic crisis.

It was upon the writings of Lord Keynes that was worked out that disastrous philosophy of public debt, "we owe it to ourselves." His schemes involved a sort of financial perpetual motion, in which record-breaking obligations were disposed of by creating still larger ones. In the background, of course, of such a program is a progressive inflation of currency, through the medium of which everyone who attempts to save money in any form is made to pay the costs—not through taxes so much as through the depreciation of value of whatever he owns.

Perhaps it is a pity that Lord Keynes died when he did. At the present rate of events, it will be only a few years longer until the disastrous final tragedy of such an economic philosophy bursts like a bomb upon all nations which continue following it.

No, there is not. And we recognize that this is so in our jury system. We submit the most important questions of life, liberty and property—running sometimes to millions of dollars—to the "ultimate justice of the people"—the Man on the Jury—the same kind of man who holds the bridle of the Iron Horse, or works a turret lathe of pushes a plow down a furrow. In his hands, provided he knows the facts, provided he keeps both sides of the case, the "patient confidence" of a great people is seldom, if ever betrayed.

The managers and investors in American business should "think on these things," as St. Paul phrased it. For whatsoever things are true, and honest, and just, or of good report, will be honored by the Man on the Street.

About a Busman's Holiday! When Louis Diat, executive chef of New York's Ritz-Carlton Hotel, relaxes at home on a day off, he takes over as chief cook and dinner-server. Here he mixes a tossed green salad, as part of a dinner menu composed of typically French dishes.

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL

Going to entertain your prospective son-in-law family for dinner? Wanting to impress a date? Or anybody else for whom you like to do something special and unusual? Well, then, how about a dinner with the sophisticated air of a typical French menu?

Can't do it, you say? Wouldn't attempt anything so complicated? Sure you can do it, and it's not so complicated, either. You can serve a dinner of typically French dishes right at home, with little trouble than it takes you to prepare the American variety. A new book—"Louis Diat's Home Cook Book"—written by the executive of New York's famous Ritz-Carlton Hotel puts French cookery into plain housewife terms.

Asked to assemble, from the varied collection of over 700 recipes in his book, a simple menu that would make a good company for Monsieur Louis suggested:

Roast Lamb (or Pork) à la Boulangère
Green Peas
Turban d'Argen
Tossed Green Salad

And here are the recipes for these delicious French dishes:
Leg or shoulder of lamb; for loin or shoulder of pork, allow 25 c. per lb. in 375 F. oven. Roast meat until cooked to within 45 min. of done. Have ready 6 or 8 potatoes pared and sliced 1/4-in. thick, mixed with 1 medium onion, chopped, 1 tsp. chopped parsley, 1 tsp. and a little pepper. Remove partially roasted meat from pan, make a bed of potatoes in pan, add boiling water to just about reaches top of potatoes and bring to boil. Place meat on potatoes and roast 45 min. to 1 hr. Carve meat, arrange slices on potatoes and serve from baking dish.

Tossed Green Salad: Separate leaves of salads in season and wash in quantity of water. Drain, dry thoroughly and chill. Rub salad with a cut piece of garlic and add French Dressing made by mixing together 1 tsp. vinegar, 4 tsp. salad oil, 1/2 tsp. salt and a little oil. Toss all together until dressing coats all leaves.

His Main Dish of Roast Pork à la Boulangère, he puts a layer of potatoes mixed with chopped onions on bottom of roasting pan. Monsieur Louis serves directly from the dish in which it was cooked.

Turban d'Argen, the delicious dessert, consists of a molded ring of rice and whipped cream, with prunes in center and a sauce over all.

Turban d'Argen: Cover 1 c. washed rice with cold water, bring to a boil, turn off heat and let stand 5 min. Drain and rinse with cold water. Scald 2 1/2 c. milk in top of double boiler, add rice, 6 tsp. sugar and 1/2 tsp. salt. Cook 45 min. or until done. Separate grains by tossing with fork and combine with 3 beaten eggs yolks and a little vanilla. Soften 1/2 tsp. gelatin in 1 tsp. cold water and add to hot rice mixture. Cool. Fold in 1 c. whipped cream, pour into ring mold, chill until firm. Cook 1/2 lb. soaked prunes in 2 c. water with 2 slices lemon until soft and liquid is reduced to 1 c. Drain. Make sauce by adding 3 tsp. apricot jam to prune juice. Unmold rice ring, put prunes in center and pour sauce around. Serves 8.

Here's the finished roast on its bed of potatoes and onion, which is potatoes mixed with chopped onions on bottom of roasting pan. Monsieur Louis serves directly from the dish in which it was cooked.

Important vitamin C should be given to babies very early in life. Orange or grape-fruit juice, diluted with a bit of water which has been boiled in a porcelain enameled kettle to keep it sanitary, is the most successful method. However, the water must be cooled before it is added to the juice as hot water destroys vitamin C.

O God of Heaven and Earth, strengthen us humans and help us to become sons of God. Teach us to find Jesus, the saviour of souls, that we may be worthy of our calling and profession. Give us grace to forgive and strength to aid those who through ignorance and sin trespass against us. Attend us along life's weary way to cheer the dark moments of despair and lead us into the light of Thy Grace. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

BRISTOL H. S. WINS ITS FIRST VICTORY FOR THE SEASON

Plays Low Scoring Game With Bensalem for Five Innings; Score, 9-0

THE FIRST TILT HERE

Deitch Driven from Mound; Wagner Baffles Bensalem With His Fast Ball

Bristol High and Bensalem High played a low-scoring game for five innings yesterday afternoon on the local diamond but the Owls went to pieces and Bristol began to hit in the clutch so that the final score was: Bristol, 9; Bensalem, 0. It was Bristol's first home game and initial victory of the season and a Lower Bucks County League game.

During the first five frames the only marker was a home run in the fourth from the bat of "Easy" Mama. The ball was just an ordinary single to left field but as "Easy" Turner stooped to field the ball it bounced away from him and rolled to the fence as Mama circled the bases.

Prior to this blow, Bristol was held scoreless and hitless by "Mike" Deitch and Earl Wagner had limited the Bensalem team to one blow. Bristol was credited with another hit in the fifth when Dick Ritter beat out a bunt.

But in the sixth, the Bristol "hitless wonders" came to life. Deitch was driven from the mound. "Jack" Hansen relieved him and pitched to only two batters before he went back to shortstop and Dave Dimitro finished. The rally saw eight Bristol runners dead the home plate.

In the meantime, Wagner continued to baffle the Bensalem batters with his fast ball. He did not pitch the seventh but that hit allowed in the first represented the invaders' only safety. The single was a blow to the right of Mama who got his hands on the ball but could not field it. In the seventh, Horace Saxton did the hurling for the Bensalem and got rid of the three Bensalem batters without trouble.

Only in the first inning was Wagner in any difficulty. After he whiffed the first two batters, Trapp was given first base because Catcher Lou Mari tipped his bat. Hansen then hit his single and Trapp went to third, the runner going to second on the play at third. When Trapp wandered too far off the base, Mari lifted a throw to Kilian and in the un-down, Trapp was tagged out.

Bristol had runners on base in the second and third because of walks but Deitch was also tight with his base hits, allowing but two until the sixth when the fireworks began.

Murphy opened with a hit to short center. Mari lined a hit to center to score Murphy after the latter stole second, Deitch tried to catch Mari off base and threw the ball away. Mama hit to short who fumbled. Kilian singled, scoring Mari. Ritter bunted down the third base line, scoring Mama, and beating the throw to first for a hit. Heath batted for Nafale and was hit with a pitched ball, forcing in Kilian with a run.

With the bags loaded, Wagner slapped a hit to left which Turner let go through him to score three runners and placing Wagner on third. Morrell hit to Trapp who tossed too late to the plate to get Wagner. Saxton forced Morrell. Murphy fled out, Mari got on via an error but Mama hit to Hansen whose throw to third got Mari.

The fielding game of the afternoon was produced by Mama in the fourth inning when he ran to his deep right, fielded a grounder hit by Hansen, and his throw beat the runner to first by a step.

REDSKINS WIN THEIR 5TH STRAIGHT GAME

LANGHORNE, Apr. 24.—Coach DeRisi's Langhorne Redskins won their fifth straight game yesterday afternoon, nosing out Allentown (N. J.) High, 8-7, in an extra inning fracas on Playwicky field.

A double by "Inky" Schneider followed by a single from the bat of Bob Griffin gave the Langhorne team the triumph in the eighth frame after Allentown tied the score by tallying twice in the seventh frame.

Because his face right-hander, "Charlie" Martindell, is in Washington, Coach DeRisi started Doan on the mound. He went well until the third when with two on base, Joe Moore, of the visitors, walloped the ball to left field for a home run. Joe Zolot relieved him and after the Jersey team tied the score in the seventh, "Inky" Schneider pitched the eighth and struck out three batters.

The Langhorne boys hit the ball hard, having a total of fourteen safe blows. Reetz had four out of four; Schneider, four out of five; and Griffin, three out of four.

Prior to the defeat, Coach "Cy" Bachman's proteges had won four straight games. Coach John Hoffman started Morris on the mound and in the seventh used Jack Lebegern. Coach Bachman had Andy Kish to pitch and in the sixth he gave way to Bob Jones.

Both teams made eight hits. One of the Fallsington safe blows was a triple by Kish with the bags loaded in the fourth innings.
